

Chicago Criminal Attorney

Criminal Lawyer in Chicago

Albuquerque & Associates was founded by Nick Albuquerque. Nick Albuquerque has over twenty three years of experience with every facet of litigation. Nick Albuquerque has tried over 700 cases, and handled thousands: DUIs, misdemeanors, felonies, drug cases, rape cases, murders, medical malpractice and personal injuries cases. In 1983, Nick Albuquerque began his career at the Suffolk County, New York Medical Examiner's Office where he assisted the medical examiner and learned a variety of, forensic tools, processes and tests. In 1987 Nick Albuquerque interned full time as an investigator with the Washington D.C. Public Defender's Service. Lesson learned: you cannot win your case without good facts; good facts only come with complete immersion into the case. That is why Nick Albuquerque makes every effort to go to the scene immediately, talk to the witnesses, get statements, and understand every detail and nuance of your case. The Public Defender Service rewarded Mr. Albuquerque for his hard work and good results with a permanent investigator staff position and awarded him a certificate of outstanding service for his work as an investigator. Nick Albuquerque went to law school at Case Western Reserve School of Law. For eight years Nick Albuquerque honed his litigation skills in the Cook County Public Defender's Office by trying hundreds of cases and receiving several commendations for excellent results. Since 2002, Nick Albuquerque has been in private practice where he has developed a reputation for zealous representation, creative thinking and excellent results in the Chicago land legal community.
